Survey Evaluation

Thank you for taking the time to help us with this study. The completion of this short survey will give the PLEI Working Group a more accurate picture of the PLEI products and services available at the community level. It will also help address content and delivery gaps. Please answer the following three questions to help us evaluate this survey as a tool.

Do you think that an annual provincial PLEI needs assessment such as this is useful?

Yes No

Why or why not?:

Would you, or someone in your organization, be willing or able to complete/update a survey like this on an annual basis?

Yes No

Why or why not?

Do you have any other suggestions for the PLEI Working Group?

Yes No

APPENDIX 7 – Brief Implementation Strategy for the NAT

1. Identify a person responsible to coordinate the implementation of the NAT: In order to ensure that tasks are completed and there is no duplication of activities someone should be assigned the responsibility to implement and monitor the NAT, ensure that an up-to-date data base is compiled, communicate results to the PLEI WG and ensure follow-up with organizations throughout the Province. Estimated resources: During the survey period it would require, at a minimum, an average of 5-10 hours per week (over and above any other PLEI WG responsibilities). The time dedicated to this responsibility will need to be carefully monitored for future budgeting purposes.
2. Finalize Needs Assessment Tool (NAT) to ensure it meets the strategic priorities for the year. Update the electronic, print and web-based versions of the NAT. To update the web-based version of the NAT will require the assistance of an individual with moderate experience in web forms (any of the individuals that update the LSS website would have this ability). Estimated resources: 1-2 hour meeting of PLEI WG and 4-5 hours of staff time to modify the web-based version of the NAT)
3. Post the web-based version of the NAT to a central server. Ensure that those individuals who wish to fill in a paper version of the NAT have a contact number they can call to receive it by fax/mail. This will require the assistance of an individual with moderate experience in web forms. Estimated resources: <2 hours to post the survey. Responding to those individuals who wish to fill-out a paper-based survey will vary.
4. Communicate the existence of the NAT to the PLEI and Law-Related Education (LRE) network in BC. This could be done by combining the collective databases for all member organizations and/or working with key contacts in each community to ensure that PLEI/LRE organizations receive word that the NAT is available. Links to the NAT webpage could also be posted on the websites of all PLEI WG members. Estimated resources: This will depend on the extent of the network established throughout the Province. Assuming there are key contacts in most communities the length of the task would vary by community size. The resource allocation for the PLEI WG would be approximately 4-6 hours to draft and distribute a letter to the community contacts. Posting a link on websites would take each member organization less than 1 hour.
5. Send out reminders (two or three reminders at two week intervals) to ensure maximum response for the NAT. Estimated resources: See above. If there are key contacts at the community level this is something that could be built into their responsibilities and would vary by community. There would be little or no resource allocations required by the PLEI WG.
6. Back-up survey results daily to protect against accidental loss of the survey. Estimated resources: 5 minutes per day during the survey period (it may be possible for this to be done automatically if the host server is backed daily).

7. Manually enter all paper-based NAT responses into the web-based survey. Estimated resources: Again this will vary depending on the number of paper-based surveys received but it would take 5-10 minutes per survey to enter the data. The PLEI WG and the community contacts should encourage organizations to fill in the web-based form whenever possible.
8. Analyze the NAT responses. This can be done manually using a program like Microsoft Excel (not recommended) or through the development of a database management tool (using Microsoft Access). Estimated resources: To develop and test the database management tool would require 24-30 hours of staff time. However, once it was developed it would only require minimal resources to customize it each year. The resources required to analyze the responses would depend on a number of factors: 1) the number of responses, 2) the extent of the responses to open-ended questions, and 3) the number of closed-ended questions that can be automatically collated by the database management tool.
9. Reporting the results to the PLEI WG, the survey participants and the general public. The publication of a brief report to explain the results of the survey. Estimated resources: 12-24 hours depending on the extent of the report.
10. Development of an online database of PLEI contacts. The contact information for organizations can be collated by the database management tool, sorted by community and service area and posted to a central PLEI website. The “front-end” of the website would direct visitors to click on a community where they would then be able to access the information collected through the NAT. There would need to be a note indicating that the information only reflects those organizations who responded to the survey. Estimated resources: If the output from the database management tool was formatted properly it would take very little effort to dump the output onto a website. Overall development of the website would probably take 24-36 hours during the survey period with 4-6 hours per month dedicated to maintaining the site.
11. Follow-up on the results. Further to reporting the results, a process should be set up to follow-up on the results, take action and report the results of that action to the community. Respondents were emphatic that they needed to see that their input was resulting in action being taken. The PLEI WG should report back the results. In fact, this report would be a good introduction to the following year’s NAT and would build credibility with service providers and educators who may not have participated in previous years.
